"Homes of a Hundred Ideas."

The Meaning of an Ideal Home.

Our homes are so planned and adjusted as to meet a woman's ideals of a perfect dwelling, in order that she may undertake her responsibilities well equipped for the establishment of a home which will be a credit to her intelligence and of value to the com-

An ideal home means much more than convenience and comfort. It means the family's establishment in a community. It is substantial evidence of the family's position. The man who realizes the difference between houses and "homes" must now understand that ownership is the basis on which the ideal home is founded. The family's position and prestige depending upon home ownership, the ideal home becomes an impossibility unless the man who would rent can find terms upon which he can purchase it. Our purchase plan makes the salaried man a land proprietor, the owner of his home. How do we propose to do it? Is it not worth asking about?

We know it is. Watching for a home to be completed is like watching a flower unfold. Each process must be perfect. Neither can be hurried. The location of the homes will be announced at the earliest possible moment through Shannon & Luchs (Selling
